

Reduce Costs. Increase Morale. Strengthen Resilience.

Return-to-work and Light-duty policies are essential for the well-being of both your employees and your company.

A clear and comprehensive return-to-work program can help mitigate the costs associated with lost productivity and workers' compensation claims while providing stability and security for employees.

We provide resources and guidance for developing robust return-to-work, light-duty, and workplace safety programs so our covered employers can prepare for and reduce workplace injuries.

We invite you to use the attached template as a guide when creating or updating your company's light-duty policy.
